Cypriots Threaten To Shoot Harding

British Tighten Defense

LONDON (AP)—Cypriots extremists openly threatened Tuesday to put a bullet into Field Marshal Sir John Harding. The British immediately tightened their elaborate police system for protecting the Cyprus governor and member of the British Cabinet.

The threat—the first made openly in the British Isles—came in leaflets tossed from a car racing through the streets of Manchester, 160 miles from London.

Harding, showing no concern, moved behind a wedge of detectives from government office to government office in London discussing the problems of the riot-torn eastern Mediterranean island which Prime Minister Eden has said Britain must hold.

The "Kill Harding" leaflets flew into Manchester streets were signed: "Dianos, Cyprus Liberation Subcommittee, Great Britain, EOKA." Presumably this is the EOKA branch operating among some of the 30,000 Cypriots living in Britain. EOKA itself is the armed underground striking force in Cyprus of the union-with-Greece movement.

Scotland Yard said it regarded the threat as genuine. The leaflets, addressed to Harding said:

"You are fully responsible for every murder on Cyprus soil. You are responsible for the violence, assaults, depression, deportation...

"You are a murderer and history is aware of it.

"You are a criminal and you have got to pay for your crimes. A bullet is waiting for you."

Eden gave the members of his Cabinet Tuesday a lengthy account of his conversation Monday night with Harding.

Court Panel Rules Bus Segregation Unconstitutional

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Splitting 2-1, a three-judge panel in Federal Court ruled Tuesday that racial segregation on city buses in Montgomery violates the federal Constitution.

City and state officials are expected to appeal direct to the Supreme Court in what may become the first clear cut decision by that court on city bus segregation.

The panel, anticipating that, gave opposing lawyers two weeks to submit written suggestions on how the formal anti-segregation order should be entered, and whether a stay should be granted pending an appeal.

Judge Richard T. Rives of the U. S. Fifth Circuit of Appeals and Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., of the Middle District of Alabama signed the majority opinion holding bus segregation contrary to the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

Red China's Premier Tells Newsman His Nation Wants Peace

The writer of this dispatch is a correspondent of the Sydney, Australia, Morning Herald who has just returned from a visit to Communist China. His story was made available to The Associated Press by the Morning Herald.

By SELWYN SPEIGHT

HONG KONG (AP)—The Premier of Communist China, Chou en-Lai, says his country wants peace because it faces an enormous task in industrial development.

In an interview I had with him just before I left Peiping—one of the very few interviews the Premier has given to a foreign newspaper—Chou en-Lai said also:

It is no use begging lovers of war to cease their activities. That only makes them worse. Therefore, China must develop her own defenses and is doing so.

China wants more friendly relations with other Pacific countries, including Australia. She would like talks with the United States on higher level than has so far proved possible.

The interview, which covered most causes of friction between China and other powers, apparently was given me because I was the first correspondent from an Australian newspaper to visit Peiping since the civil war.

There was no written statement. The interview, given through an interpreter, lasted nearly two hours and was given on the understanding that because it was interpreted there should be no direct quotation.

Among my questions, most of which I had submitted previously, I raised these points: What are the prospects of increased trade?

How can China's neighbors be sure she can feed her enormous population—estimated to reach more than one billion by 1980? Would he comment on the dangers of war? Does China believe the world could survive atomic

Man, 27, Freed From Jail About Two Months Late

CHICAGO (AP)—Arthur Trease, 27, was freed from jail Tuesday after two months late.

Trease had been convicted of 11 traffic violations last Aug. 25, and fined $1.125 by Judge Alphonse Wells in Municipal Court.

The defendant understood that he would have to work out the largest fine, of $308.50, which would take seven months. But the months stretched into nine, and jail officials told him they figured he had to work out the whole amount, which would come to nearly two years.

Judge Wells heard about the situation, and said he had intended only seven months in jail for Trease. He appointed Atty. Edwin J. Johnson, a friend of the court to seek Trease's release in U. S. District Court on a habeas corpus petition.

Federal Judge Cornelius J. Harrington heard Johnson's argument that sentences must be considered concurrent under the law if they are not specifically imposed in sequence. There was no specification as to how Trease's fines were to be worked out.

Judge Harrington ordered Trease released from jail.

MILITARY PIE—The increasing importance of the Air Force in our defense is reflected in the new military budget now before the Senate. Funds appropriated for the fiscal year 1954 gave the Army the lion's share, with 12.9 billion out of 33.8 billion dollars. The Air Force then received only 11.4 billion, while the Navy had to be content with the remaining 9.5 billion. The new budget, however, gives the Air Force almost half the funds, while the Army now receives the least of the three. Of the proposed 34.5 billion dollars in the new military budget, the Air Force expects to get 16.5 billion, the Navy 9.5, and the Army only 8.5 billions. The "landscape" charts, above, show a comparison of the two budgets in percentages.

ILLINOIS U. JUNIOR DROWNS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Stephen Lemak Jr., about 20, a junior at the University of Illinois, was drowned Tuesday while swimming at Lake of the Woods.

Judge Harrington ordered Trease released from jail.

California Primary

Adlai Leads Estes In Early Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai Stevenson stepped ahead of Sen. Estes Kefauver by better than 2 to 1 in the first trickle of returns from California's Democratic presidential primary Tuesday.

The report from 867 of the state's 24,160 precincts gave Stevenson 32,118 to 16,527 for his Tennessee rival. The count included the tabulation from 130 of 9,495 Los Angeles precincts. Los Angeles County has roughly 40 per cent of the state's votes.

Estimates by election officials indicated a Democratic vote of around two million of the three million registration in deciding the winner of 68 pledged votes to the Democratic presidential nominating convention.

President Eisenhower, unopposed on the Republican ticket for 70 GOP delegates, drew 24,429 votes in the incomplete tally by 851 polling places. Democrats outnumber Republicans on the rolls by 782,000.

What Congress Harvested

They were poor prophets who foretold there wouldn't be another farm bill after President Eisenhower vetoed the big omnibus bill of 1956. A new one has been signed, and it's a good deal better than the earlier one.

It contains the administration's strongly urged soil bank program, as did the predecessor measure. But it is stripped of most of the other features which made that first bill so objectionable to the White House.

That does not mean it is perfect. To get his soil bank plan enacted, Mr. Eisenhower was compelled to pay a certain price. Yet it is a considerably smaller price than demanded previously.

The new legislation provides that 1956 price supports on the so-called feed grains—oats, rye, barley and grain sorghums—be advanced from 70 per cent of parity to 76 per cent. It further exempts growers of these crops from acreage controls this year.

The administration disapproves this change but the President has had enough dealings with Congress to realize that few measures which come to his desk are ideal from the White House viewpoint.

Mr. Eisenhower had asked that the soil bank plan be set forth in a manner that would allow advance payments in 1956 to American farmers who signified intent to take part in it.

Congress refused to authorize such payments.

In fact, it turned the matter around and put the heat on the administration by providing that Secretary of Agriculture Benson must get the program under way this year despite the fact that farm planting is already well in progress.

This will not be easy, since basically the program is one calling for taking marginal and other land out of production, in return for cash payments. But this is not a crippling handicap. At least the administration can try to comply with the congressional mandate in 1956.

The best news about the new bill is that it is shorn of the rigid price support provisions tacked onto the earlier measure. Those made that bill a hopeless contradiction, and were the chief reason for the President's veto.

We cannot look for immediate miracles from the current legislation. But at least government has made a start down a slightly different road. We can hope that ultimately this path will take the nation out of the dilemma it has been in since mountainous surpluses first cast their shadow over the farm scene.

All Aboard

Anyone concerned with America's basic economic health should cheer the news that the railroads are now attracting more passengers.

The growth of air travel in the post-war era is a remarkable and commendable development in American life. All the signs indicate a continuing trend and it can be welcomed.

In the same way motor car traffic has mounted astonishingly in the last decade. Insofar as it promotes flexibility and even greater than normal mobility among Americans, it, too, can be accepted as a promising trend. The upturn is good news.

We gossip subtly by passing judgment on someone else whom we call a gossip. In proving our point that "Mrs. So and So" is a maligner we spread all kinds of gossip ourselves. It is easy to see our own weaknesses in other people. We know what to look for.

Many centuries ago a crowd of smug self-appointed judges came to Jesus with a sinner. They were violent in their criticism and wanted to put the sinner to death. Jesus listened to their story and observed that none of them were free from sin.

He passed no judgment. He merely suggested that anyone who was free from sin should inflict the penalty on the sinner.

In Detroit, Mrs. Edna Hitchcock, wife of a chemical engineer, gave us her recipe for a really luscious black cherry glace pie. It uses the new black cherry-flavored gelatin and is garnished with sweetened whipped cream. She says not only her husband and friends go for it, but also her two young children, Brian and Diane.

Cherry Nut Pie

One package black cherry-flavored gelatin, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup hot water, cherry juice and water to make 1/2 cup, 1 can (20 ounces) sour red pie cherries, drained; 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Mix gelatin and cinnamon. Add sugar and dissolve in hot water. Add cherry juice and water. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cherries and nuts. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Marshal Tito can quack like a fat duck on a nest of eggs. He never had it so good.

This government, with its fingers crossed, is watching the Yugoslav President's visit to Moscow to see if he turns his back on the West and joins up again 100 per cent with the Russians. Why should he?

He's had a soft touch, letting the United States and Russia both bid for his favor. All he's had to do is sit still, like a village belle, waiting for the suitors to bring him candy bars.

Unless there's something which doesn't meet the eye, there seems no reason for him to stop playing this game of both ends against the middle.

The United States has spent an estimated one billion dollars on Yugoslavia since Tito broke with Stalin in 1948, the first Communist satellite leader to try it.

It would have been no surprise if he had been attacked or assassinated then. He was surrounded by Russian satellites, his onetime friends.

This country didn't help him for love. It looked like a good investment. If he could survive, with Western help, other satellite leaders might be encouraged to bust up Stalin's playground.

And if he couldn't be brought into the Western military alliance—his military forces are largely equipped now with Western weapons—he would still be valuable as a neutral buffer between the two sides.

He preferred to stay neutral but has been on the friendliest terms with the West. This was all a thorn in Stalin's side while Stalin lived.

And if he couldn't be brought into the Western military alliance—his military forces are largely equipped now with Western weapons—he would still be valuable as a neutral buffer between the two sides.

Both of these statements hit directly at the do-little record of the Democratic majorities in Congress on labor legislation this year and last.

The result is that Republican Secretary of Labor James Mitchell—who has only a comparatively mild Eisenhower labor reform program to support—can blast at the Democratic leadership in Congress for having done nothing at all.

Stalin's heirs went to work on that problem shortly after the old man died. It was a break in the Red wall which had to be mend. They soft-talked Tito. Premier Bulganin and Communist boss Krushchev humbly visited him.

They're dangling money bags in front of him. The Soviet bloc reportedly has offered him 300 million dollars in loans and reportedly he has accepted. This year the Eisenhower administration was thinking in terms of a 30-million-dollar gift to him. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has recommended that he be cut in half.

The United States didn't help him blindly, hoping he'd renounce communism. He has steadily said he was a Communist and would remain one. What the West hoped for was to keep him away from Russia.

Now he's in Russia. He's a tough character. He's never been a patsy for anyone. If he thinks he's milked the West dry and can get more nourishment from Russia, it's possible he'll turn back to Russia.

He should make a military alliance with the Soviets, it would be bad news for this country. But why should he give up his neutral position, if he can stay fat that way?

One thing he knows: If he turns his back on the West now, and later the Russians try to chew him up as they did once before, he won't have any powerful husband to turn him out again.

Tito looks like a loner. He'll soon know whether he is.

Democrats in Odd Position

On Legislation for Labor

This provides a complete reversal of the picture of a few months ago. When Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) chairman of the GOP Senate Campaign Committee, launched a bitter attack on the labor unions for their political activity, more liberal Republicans had a sinking spell. They thought the party could not afford to alienate labor union voters this openly.

The way things are developing now, this may not make much difference in the 1956 presidential race.

Congressional contests might be something else again. It is hard to conceive that labor union voters will cast their ballots for conservative Republicans. But the Democrats now don't have this vote in their pockets, either.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood is wooing writers as never before. This becomes more evident each day as the emphasis continues to shift to the story, both in movies and TV. Producers in both mediums are proclaiming their dire need for good story material. Some are even taking definite steps to promote it.

Columbia Pictures has notified book publishers that the studio will help finance unfinished books that present good film possibilities and will assist in publicizing the books when they are published.

"We need properties," Columbia boss Harry Cohn declared. Other producers heartily agree, and some are offering fellowships and prizes to encourage new writers.

One of the pioneers in this matter is Samuel Goldwyn, who has been a booster of story values throughout his long career. During the '20s, he imported a group of big-name authors from New York and London. The experiment was not a rousing success, but it did improve the literary tone of the Hollywood product.

Last week Goldwyn presented his annual $1,000 prize for the best creative writing by a UCLA student to a pretty young Chinese girl from Formosa, Lee Hwa Yu. The producer, whose own English is not polished but who still possesses a convincing earnestness, gave some of his thoughts about writing.

"Writing is a work of love," he remarked. "You have to sweat if you expect to create something convincing. . . . Without good writing, a picture cannot succeed. I have failed many times for that reason. I can produce a picture beautifully, but if I do not have a good story, it means nothing. It's like building a house: If you have a sound foundation, you will build a strong house. . . .

Ray L. Hayes of Jacksonville, Ill., was struck in his right thumb by a stray bullet at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning while he was plowing with a tractor, northeast of the city.

At first Hayes didn't realize what had happened. He said he heard a "popping" noise and thought something had hit the tractor. He felt a sharp pain in his thumb, but it was sometime later that he knew the pain was caused by a bullet.

The wounded man drove his car to this city and went to Our Saviour's hospital where the bullet was removed. It resulted in a compound fracture of the thumb.

Hayes told Deputy Sheriff Mose Wicks that he didn't see anyone around the field where he was working. "It must have come from some distance," he said.

The bullet was turned over to the deputy sheriff for further investigation.

GIRARD, Ill.—A record price of $501 an acre was paid Monday at an auction for 60 acres of land of the Arno H. Edwards property, four miles northwest of Girard. It was believed to be the highest price ever paid for land in this vicinity. Fred Bray, prominent land-owner of Virden, was the purchaser.

Of the 60 acres, 42 are under cultivation and the bid included the crops. The rest of the acreage is pasture land.

Jazz Concert June 10 To Aid Baseball Club

Headlining outdoor summer pleasures at Nichols Park will be a jazz concert to be presented Sunday night, June 10, at the dance pavilion. This concert is to be presented by union musicians from this area in an attempt to give financial support to the new junior-adult Athletic Club Baseball League.

The manager for the league is a musician, Don LaBelle, employed at the S. W. Coe and Co. loan office. LaBelle's fellow musicians, knowing the strained financial status of the League and its need for uniforms and equipment for the players hit upon the idea to volunteer their services for a Jazz Concert.

With the cooperation of the Park board they have arranged to use the dance pavilion for the concert, which will start at nine o'clock in the evening daylight time.

After chairs are installed the estimated seating capacity will be about 300. Tickets are being sold now, at fifty cents each, and are obtainable at either the May Music Store or the Jacksonville Novelty in this city and at the Hopkins Jewelry Store at Roodhouse.

A newcomer to Jacksonville Neal Smith, a trumpet player, who came to this city from Champaign and is assistant manager at the Schiff Shoe Store, will be one of the featured soloists. A group of musicians from Beardstown are even planning on joining the volunteer group.

If the public shows its approval of this concert and supports the cause another such performance will be held in the early fall reports coordinator Boots Brennan.

Members of the junior-adult baseball league, that already has its season underway, will take tickets and serve as ushers the evening of the concert.

This performance is not to be confused with the previously presented free summer concerts at the park. Although many of the same people will be playing in the concert this project has a definite goal and the public is asked to support its cause both for the League of young teenagers and junior adults it will benefit and for the unique pleasure of the concert.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water-diluted. It's cheaper than wax in the long run besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

MICHIGAN'S ATOLLS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Northern Michigan, hardly noted for the sun-warmed waters that produce coral reefs, still has an extensive supply of coral left over from the Silurian Period 300 to 400 million years ago.

Geologists speculate the coral formed when warm waters of the Gulf Stream flowed through Michigan and surrounding areas. Vacationers can pick up handfuls of coral around De Tour and Alpena.

The coral formations also have a practical interest. Some of the world's best producing oil wells are drilled in old coral formations.

The U.S.S.R. has one farm worker to 2 or 3 people while the United States has one farm worker for 17 people.

THE STORY: Frank Ude now knows that Emmett Cash is an outcast. As a poor tramp, Frank and Emmett are at odds. Frank tries to part company but Emmett shoots a posseman's horse in order to make Frank an outlaw too.

XIII
FRANK swung about. "I ought to kill you for that!" he murmured between tight jaws.

Again that laugh in Emmett's brazen way. "We're both in it now. Don't try and run against your rope. Lew Chantry won't let up till he cripples his horse in bringing you in."

Frank was without knowledge of the hiding places around this country. He didn't have a chance unless he rode down now and surrendered to Chantry. To do this he'd have to kill Emmett first.

"There's a blind canyon yonder a couple miles that's not as blind as it looks. Lew Chantry's lost beyond that rock pile. The other side of the hill is Yates' home-stead. Not even Chantry would be fool enough to jump us when my whole outfit's together."

As he started down slope he decided Sheriff Chantry was shrewd in withholding the posse's fire until they closed the gap. Frank decided he was in a fix and might as well go through with Emmett. After they had outdistanced the posse beyond the box canyon he could make his break. "No more shooting if we ride together."

Emmett forged ahead, plunging his gray between the canyon's jaws at breakneck speed. They raced through the canyon's throat. Flying dust in narrows where the sunlight could enter only from above. Frank now saw the walls curve in a crescent shaped bow creating an oval pocket perhaps a half mile wide. An ugly mine dump and the gray-board mill building he had expected loomed against the yellow rim. Behind it a narrow trail twisted as far as the mine head. Above that stood only the vertical walls of the canyon. Close as he inspected this pocket he could find no suggestion of a way out. Except for Emmett's description he would have sworn they had placed themselves in a trap.

Emmett put his horse toward the mine shack. "You see that ledge on our left?" His face was unyielding and tight. "They call this the Mojave Box. White men hauled up here one time and were starved to death by the Indians. There's a faint deer trail that tops out from the far end of the ledge. Few suspect them."

THEY swerved toward the mine shack, Emmett raking his horse up to the door before quitting saddle. "Get down," he snapped, tension putting a fresh edge to his voice. He stood with his weight settled heavily on his heels, his gelding close-hauled and blowing noisily beside his elbow. Frank kicked out of his oxbow trying to figure what Emmett planned.

Emmett swung his glance around, satisfied. He said wryly, "They'll figure we're shacked up inside, and Chantry'll spend an hour going over the place. Don't leave any trail sign from here on."

Now he led the gray by the bridle, picking his way with expert skill over the flinty reefs. Whenever Frank's chestnut stepped onto soft gravel he returned, dusting the earth with his jacket. There seemed a pure delight about his expression.

They worked slowly across the basin floor leaving behind no

TELEVISION WEATHER

CINCINNATI, Ohio (F)—Station WLW has put into operation a system which it claims can track storms within a 125 mile radius of Cincinnati.

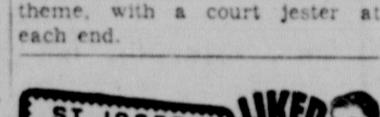

A specially adapted antenna on the station's transmitter and a radarscope at the downtown WLW weather station does the job.

The radar installation lets its television audiences actually watch the weather on the radar scope.

Meteorologist Jim Fidler, director of the station's weather service, said the equipment enables him to forecast with pinpoint accuracy the direction, speed and time of arrival in the area of any thunderstorm, tornado or unusual weather.

SUMMER SNOWFALL

Isachsen weather station, on Ellef Ringnes Island in the Canadian Arctic, gets more snow in summer than in winter. Cold air doesn't hold as much moisture as warmer air.

The toastmistress, Helen Jansen, introduced the speaker, Marvin G. West, who presented a very interesting talk. The class will be read by William McLain, followed by the class prophecy by Yvonne Stock.

A boys quartette composed of Garry Carls, Robert Wessler, Jerry Lovekamp, and Neal Hart, then sang "Wonderful Copenhagen."

The family "chauffeurs" are going for Ford in a big way for some mighty big reasons.

That's why the lady loves a Ford

She loves the performance that makes Ford the world's largest-selling V-8!

Who wouldn't thrill to the extra "GO" that Ford knows so well how to pack into a V-8? The lady is no exception. And while she may be a bit hazy about the 30 world performance records that Ford broke, she knows that the 225-h.p. Thunderbird Special V-8* in a Fordomatic Victoria is ready and able in an instant to whisk her away from traffic trouble.

She loves that look that says Thunderbird all over!

Any one with a flair for style knows that the "long, low look" is in and that the Thunderbird-inspired Ford is the fashion leader. Inside, too, Ford boasts new beauty with the richer fabrics, lovelier colors of Luxury Lounge Interiors.

She loves the protection of Ford's exclusive Lifeguard Design

The lady heartily approves the sound, common sense of Ford Lifeguard Design and appreciates the new peace of mind it brings when the family's on the move. New deep-center steering wheel and Lifeguard double-grip door latches are standard equipment. Floor-anchored Ford seat belts and Lifeguard padding for sun visors and instrument panel are available at reasonable extra cost.

She loves the way Ford S-T-R-E-T-C-H-E-S budgets!

Built-in extra value makes Ford worth a good deal more than its modest price... helps it hold on to its value, too! For example, a hefty frame with 5 heavy cross-members and sturdy K-bar bracing is the most ruggedly designed and built in the low-price field.

Come in and meet the lady's beau at your Ford Dealer's. Chances are you'll agree, she knows how to pick 'em.

Says Caudle Made Schwimmer Take Back Oil Royalty

Schwimmer, Lashly said, without knowing how much Schwimmer paid for it.

Evidence introduced by the government indicated Schwimmer paid $3,600 for the royalty. Lashly said Connally didn't learn of this figure until an indictment was returned against him in the current case.

Red Cross Head Says U.S. Faces Disaster Threats

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A defense attorney says T. Lamar Caudle, on trial for conspiracy, "took the veil, hide off" a tax dodger's attorney when informed he had bought an oil royalty in Caudle's name.

C. Arthur Anderson, attorney for Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, said Caudle asked Harry L. Schwimmer:

"Why did you buy that oil royalty? I didn't authorize you to do that. I don't want it at any price."

Anderson said Monday that Caudle's federal court trial that Schwimmer was tried, "I'll get it out of your name. I'll prepare a transfer order."

The transfer was taken care of after months of insistence by Caudle, Anderson said.

Caudle and Matthew J. Connally, White House appointments secretary under Truman, are charged with conspiring to defraud the government by trying to sidetrack criminal prosecution of Schwimmer's client, Irving Sachs.

Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer, was fined $40,000 when he pleaded guilty to income tax evasion in 1951 but escaped a prison term on health grounds.

The government contend's Schwimmer bought oil royalties for Connally and Caudle for their influence in the case.

Defense attorney John Lashly, in his opening statement to the jury, said Connally bought an oil royalty for $750 "and paid for it 400 times brighter than Thomas Edison's first commercially practical lamp, developed in 1879."

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Nowadays most people watch baseball games either:

(A) In the Living Room A.C., creating all sorts of arguments by putting baseball on in place of "I Love Lucy" or some other show.

(B) Jamming their way to the bar and watching the noble athletes run across the saloon wall.

(C) Getting in worse trouble by staying out half the night watching a "nocturnal fray," as the telecasters so brilliantly put it, and won't you please come out, there are plenty of seats.

Well, the other day, we saw a game in broad daylight in a seat in the left field stands and on the foul line at Yankee Stadium. Along about the fifth inning, you had the thought that if the word got around a lot of people might come out and fill the place.

That would probably spoil it, because on this particular afternoon, we had a private complete section with Moe Berg, the old American League catcher, and Don Fagan, the railroad passenger agent. A section away were three hot dog-eating, beer-drinking fans in T-shirts, calmly putting up with the Senators playing the Yankees.

It was mighty pleasant sitting there, talking of Babe Ruth and when baseball was played under the sun.

In the seventh inning, Lyle Luttrell, the recruit Washington shortstop, hit a long drive right at us. Joe Collins, playing left field for the Yankees, raced with the ball. He misjudged it by a stride and as he slammed into the railing, the ball glanced off his shoulder into the seats.

Collins started to walk back to his position. But in the infield, Gil McDougald, the shortstop, started squawking. He motioned that the umpires that the ball had hit the ground before going into the stands, thereby making it a ground rule double.

"Are they going to argue?" said Fagan. "I have to have the Washington club on a 5:30 train. We'll never make it this way."

Berg hopped to Fagan's assistance, stood up and bellowed to Collins.

"It was in, Joe," he shouted. "Go in and tell them it was in. They're holding up the game. They say it didn't go in."

Collins turned around.

"Was it in?" he asked.

"It bounced in, go in and argue," the fans in section away yelled.

"It went in and you know," countered Berg. "Go in there and tell the truth."

McDougald had umpires and players jabbering at each other. Collins didn't care to go in and upset his teammate's argument.

Berg waved his arms. Fagan looked anxiously at the clock. Way back in the infield, Umpire Bill Summers was looking at the stands.

"Oh, Bill, it was in!" roared Berg. "Ask Collins, he knows it."

Summers called Collins in and out on the grass put the embarrassing question to him as Berg kept shouting. Finally, the argument broke up and the game resumed. Fagan thought he had a fair chance of getting the Senators on the train now.

"Why did you louse up our fun?" one of the fans in undershirts in the next section asked. "We had Collins listening to us. We could have driven him crazy."

"The Washington club has to catch a train," replied Moe Berg.

The clock said 4:15 and they were in the eighth inning. Plenty of time to get home for dinner.

And it was a nice afternoon at the park.

Cubs Clobber Friend With Five - Run Third To Down Pirates 7-3

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Friend's bid for a seventh straight triumph collapsed under a five-run Chicago blast in the third inning Tuesday as the last-place Cubs spanked Pittsburgh 7-3 and temporarily nudged the Pirates out of first place.

Milwaukee took a percentage lead, 558 to 585, pending a night game with Brooklyn.

Righthander Warren Hacker scattered seven hits as he won his first game of the season for the last-place Cubs against five defeats. Hacker weakened in the ninth when he yielded a three-run homer to Frank Thomas.

Friend, the mound mainstay of Pittsburgh's sensational National League spurt, suffered his third defeat against nine victories as he was knocked out of the box for only the third time in 14 starts.

It was Pittsburgh's fifth defeat in its last 15 starts.

The issue was settled in the third when the Cubs batted around in a seven-hit attack to produce five runs against Friend after two were out. The Cubs collected only one hit thereafter against three Buck relievers.

However, Friend's immediate successor, Jack McMahan, was nickel for two more Cub tallies in the fifth on two walks, a wild pitch and Hacker's single for a 7-0 lead.

The big Cub third was launched by Eddie Miksis' single with one out. Gene Baker followed with a single, but Dee Fondy flied for the second out and it appeared Friend might be out of trouble.

However, Ernie Banks singled, scoring Miksis and taking second on the throw-in. Baker taking third. Jim King slammed two-run single and scored on Walt Moryn's double off the left-field wall.

The sixth hit of the inning, Pete Whisenant's single scored Moryn. After Hobie Landrith was intentionally walked, Hacker, batting for the second time in the inning—singled, but Bill Virdon's perfect throw nailed Whisenant at the plate to end the inning.

Thomas' Homer in the ninth came after singles by Lee Walls and Dale Long.

Roye was born in Newark, Ohio, Feb. 3, 1815. He worked as a teacher, shopkeeper and sheep trader before sailing for Africa in 1846. There, in Liberia, he became a leading merchant and one of the small coastal republic's richest men.

He became president in 1871 after serving as chief judge of the Liberian Supreme Court. He negotiated a loan with Great Britain without consulting the Liberian Legislature.

His countrymen objected to terms of the loan. In the dispute Roye attempted to extend his two-year presidential term by edict.

The people revolted, overpowered the Roye camp, deposed and imprisoned him. Called to stand trial before the nation's supreme court, Roye escaped in a native canoe but drowned while trying to reach an English steamer anchored off shore.

GLASS PLANES EXPECTED

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Plane designers are counting heavily on fibrous glass to enable planes to break through the heat barrier, the speed range in which plane surfaces are subject to temperatures exceeding 500 degrees, a glass company engineer says.

L. N. Smith, development engineer for a glass company, told a metals conference that the military is experimenting with a porous-skinned fibrous glass fighter plane as a means of air-cooling the skin of the plane at very high temperatures.

Already, he says, military planes are using glass for wing sections and tail pieces.

DELAVAN, Ill. (AP)—An old American flag found in the walls of their 100-year-old home presents Mr. and Mrs. Harry Godby with a historical problem.

The flag is about 8 by 12 inches. It is red, white and blue and carries 13 stars as did the first American flag. The stars are arranged in a manner different from the first official flag.

Eight white stars are in a circle surrounding a large star that is centered in the flag. Four other stars are arranged in the corners of the blue field. There are six white and seven red stripes.

Local research failed to identify it, Mrs. Godby said.

SURVIVAL REPORT

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP)—The driver walked away from this accident reported by the Oklahoma Highway Patrol:

The car went out of control, travelled 390 feet and jumped a 12-foot ditch. It went on another 228 feet and tore out a 75-foot stretch of fence.

Then the car broke a power-line pole and three 7,200-volt lines fell. One hit the top of the car and arced out. The other two became entangled with the fence which was wrapped around the car.

DOG ON GUARD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A policeman complained that Alfred Dandridge's dog tried to bite him when he went to investigate a card game at Dandridge's house.

"That dog was sitting on the front porch like a lookout," the officer testified. "I think he's got him trained."

"No, sir, your honor," Dandridge protested. "He just don't like to see policemen around the house. The way it is, judge, he's been picked up by the dog catcher so many times that the sight of a policeman's badge drives him crazy."

Aqua ammonia an important new development of nitrogen fertilizers, is being introduced by Wm. G. Cox Co. of Pisgah. It is a 25 per cent solution of anhydrous ammonia in water. This new nitrogen fertilizer supplies 20.5 per cent of nitrogen in every 100 pounds. Aqua ammonia is gaining rapid acceptance in many areas, especially on heavy clays, sands and gumbo soils where it can be applied to shallow depths.

AQUA AMMONIA GIVES BETTER PERFORMANCE! Aqua ammonia starts feeding your crops fast because it contains its own moisture . . . there's no need to wait for rain. It spreads in the root zone where it starts to sustain plant growth throughout the season.

More convenient! You save time and work by applying aqua ammonia as you cultivate or by cut-surface application.

Easy to handle and apply! you can apply aqua ammonia with simple, low-cost equipment at relatively shallow depths (4" to 6") without significant loss.

Low in cost! Aqua ammonia is competitive with other nitrogen sources and can be applied at considerable savings. You get a guaranteed 20.5 per cent nitrogen content. Additional savings in time and labor make aqua ammonia a top-notch fertilizer buy.
